Listing of Claims:

B2
Claim 1 (currently amended): A packaged consumer product comprising ~~that comprises~~ a bottle or jar and a moulded plastic sheath therefor, said sheath being closed at the top ~~and~~ and open at the bottom, said sheath also possessing a means for releasably holding the bottle or jar, and having cutaway sections in opposite sides that enable the bottle or jar to be grasped between a finger and a thumb and pulled from the sheath, the bottle or jar comprising a cap at its top, which is also held within the moulded plastic sheath when the moulded sheath is in place.

Claim 2 (currently amended): A packaged consumer product according to claim 1, ~~characterised in that~~ wherein the outer surface of the moulded plastic sheath has a higher coefficient of friction than the outer surface of the bottle or jar contained therein.

Claim 3 (previously presented): A packaged consumer product according to claim 1, wherein the moulded plastic sheath is closely fitted to the bottle or jar and holds it firmly by frictional interactions between the outside surface of the bottle or jar and the inside surface of the sheath.

Claim 4 (currently amended): A packaged consumer product according to claim 1 ~~any preceding claim~~, comprising an internal projection protruding from the inside surface of the moulded plastic sheath and contacting the bottle or jar in a manner that aids the retention of the bottle or jar within the sheath.

β2 Claim 5 (currently amended): A packaged consumer product according to claim 4, comprising two opposed projections, that protrude downwards from the top inside surface of the moulded plastic sheath and closely follow the sides of the [[a]] cap upon the bottle or jar, each projection having an inward-facing lug at its bottom that is able to reversible slot into a slit at the bottom of each side of the [[said]] cap.

Claim 6 (previously presented): A packaged consumer product according to claim 1, wherein the moulded plastic sheath is of asymmetric shape when viewed from at least one side.

Claim 7 (previously presented): A packaged consumer product according to claim 1, wherein the moulded plastic sheath extends to the full length of the associated bottle or jar.

Claim 8 (previously presented): A packaged consumer product according to claim 1, wherein the cutaway sections in opposite sides of the sheath extend to the bottom of the sheath.

Claim 9 (canceled)

Claim 10 (currently amended): A method for the protection from physical damage of a bottle or jar, wherein said method comprises surrounding the bottle or jar by a moulded plastic sheath therefor that is closed at the top [[,]] and open at the bottom, said sheath also

B2 possessing [[possesses]] a means for releasably holding the bottle or jar, and possesses cutaway sections in opposite sides that enable the bottle or jar to be grasped between a finger and a thumb and pulled from the sheath, the bottle or jar comprising a cap at its top, which is also held within the moulded plastic sheath when the moulded sheath is in place.
